Essentials of an Antimicrobial Stewardship Program: A Toolkit for California Hospitals

The Infectious Disease Association of California (IDAC) presents Essentials of an Antimicrobial Stewardship Program: A Toolkit for California Hospitals on Saturday, January 14, 2012 in Irvine, CA and March 3, 2012 in Berkeley, CA. This CME activity is designed to assist health care facilities in creating and implementing their own ASP to improve patient care and to meet the legislative requirements of Senate Bill 739 (Speier, 2006).

Need

SB 739 requires California general acute hospitals "to implement various measures relating to disease surveillance and the prevention of health care associated infection (HAI)" including requiring "that general acute care hospitals develop a process for evaluating the judicious use of antibiotics, the results of which shall be monitored jointly by appropriate representatives and committees involved in quality improvement activities." The Medicare Interpretive Guidelines for Long-Term Care Facilities (LTCF), effective September 30, 2009, also require that physicians in LTCFs are instructed to "prescribe appropriate antibiotics and to establish the indication for use of specific medications. As part of the medication regimen review, the consultant pharmacist can assist with the oversight by identifying antibiotics prescribed for resistant organisms or for situations with questionable indications, and reporting such findings." These mandates can be met by developing multi-disciplinary Antimicrobial Stewardship Programs (ASP).

However, many California health care facilities have requested guidance from the California Department of Public Health on how to develop and implement an ASP and on the components of an ASP that would satisfy SB 739. This activity aims to provide a step-by-step tool kit to assist California hospitals to create an ASP, to meet legislative requirements, and to maximize their return on investment by instituting such a program within their institution.

Target Audience

Physicians who have oversight over their hospital's ASP and pharmacists who will support their institutional ASP, along with microbiologists, infection preventionists, quality department personnel, informatics personnel, and hospital administrators.

Goals & Objectives

Upon completion of this activity, a toolkit to develop an ASP will be provided and the participant will be able to:

1. Understand ASP legislative mandates of Senate Bill 739 and components necessary in an ASP to satisfy requirements for the California Department of Health.
2. Understand the importance of collaboration among physicians, pharmacists, microbiologists, informatics personnel, infection preventionists, quality department personnel, and hospital administrators to ensure successful implementation.
3. Understand the roles of the antibiogram, rapid diagnostic modalities, and drug utilization monitoring in an ASP.
4. Identify the "low hanging fruit" that can be addressed when starting and sustaining a new ASP and discuss advanced strategies, "beyond the essentials" to enhance an ASP.
5. Apply strategies on presenting "Return on Investment" (ROI) to hospital administration.
